Roma Diary September 19 2008

Firstly, welcome to the 50 new people on the Roma Diary list. Also, the website has been con
I was sitting in McDonalds with my signature diet Coke talking with Jurzi. Jurzi is a teacher at
We talked about the town which has over 5000 Bayash living at a variety of levels. He was try
The truth is that Bayash culture is struck with a cancer. Whereas Europe's cancer his hidden I
With this in mind Nancy and I have just spent two days refocusing our vision. The vision is a li
We have refined our vision and distilled it into three core elements:

1. To make the Bible available in the Bayash language wherever the Bayash are.
2. To produce Bible resources that help the Bayash in their understanding of the Bible at
3. To network with other missions and groups to see Churches planted among the Baya

Let's go back to the Cancer analogy:

1. The Bible is the Chemo therapy that kills the bad cells.
2. The Bible resources are the immune system boosters that nourish life after the old ma
3. The Churches are hospitals for sick people where they will get well and be delivered f

I have never actually doubted that we were called to the Bayash. Interestingly, I have never d
